Introduction

When we set out to bring Sexy Fish to Miami, we wanted to maintain our identity from the original location in London, that includes many elements our guests have come to love over the years.

At Sexy Fish London we are known for having one of the most extensive Japanese whisky collections in the world with over 400 different bottles. We knew we wanted to do something similar for Sexy Fish Miami, so we decided to curate an exceptional list of spirits distilled from agave.

We sourced rare Tequilas and Mezcals from lesser-known producers and distilleries in Mexico, as well, we worked closely with smaller and larger suppliers across the U.S. We are proud to present this curated spirits list that includes the familiar and the lesser known; selections that represent the diversity and the artfully distilled agave spirits from Mexico.

Our Mezcal list not only highlights the quality of the producers, but also features a broad variety of agave from different regions and agave species. As a relevant comparison, consider the word 'terroir' typically used to describe wine and its sense of place. This is rare in distillation, but agave, which requires 8 years to over 35 years to cultivate, surely communicates to your palate, the terroir of the agave and Mexico. To help our guests navigate the nuances, this menu is broken down into categories and regions with helpful, brief tasting notes, to steer you towards the experience you desire.

Service

Fine spirits are optimally enjoyed in their simplest form, neat. We highly encourage this. Aged agave spirits will be served in a snifter unless otherwise specified. All spirits are served in a two-ounce measure. Please inquire with your server or bartender if you would like a short pour instead.

All the spirits on this list are available to be used in our extensive classic cocktail selection. A few of our favorites are the Siesta, a bitter twist on the Margarita, Naked & Famous, a smoky variation on the Last Word, and Aged Tequila & Coconut Water Highball. Please ask your server or bartender about them.

Tequila

Distilled from only Agave Tequilana, aka Blue Weber and can only be produced in five Mexican states: Jalisco, Nayarit, Tamaulipas, Michoacan and Guananjuato, according to the Consejo Regulador de Tequila (CRT).

Mezcal

Of the 32 states in Mexico, nine are legally authorized to distill Mezcal. The word "Mezcal" is derived from two words in the indigenous Mexican Nahuatl (na-wat-al) language: “cooked” and “agave,” and is used to denote any agave distillate where agave was cooked, fermented, and then distilled. This includes Tequila.

Oaxaca

The vast majority of Mezcal production takes place in Oaxaca. The most common agave varietal Espadin, grows in abundance here, as well as many many others.

San Luis Potosi

San Luis Potosí (SLP) was one of the original producers of vino de Mezcal in the era of Spanish rule. The region sits in the high desert, where there’s very little rain; almost all of the agaves are only irrigated by rainfall, so the soil has incredible mineral content. It is most well known for Salmiana agave with fresh, green notes.

A. Univittata

AKA Estoquillo. Matures in 7-15 years. Grows in Northeastern Mexico and Southern Texas. Earthy and vegetal.

Pechuga

Celebratory and experimental Mezcal made in a third distillation, with regional meats, fruits and vegetables. Typically made using a breast of a turkey but also lamb, ham and vegetarian expressions.

Other Mexican Spirits

In addition to Tequila and Mezcal are other very noteworthy spirits produced from agave. They include destilados de agave, which are Mezcals made by distillers who chose not to conform to the regulations of the CRM (Consejo Regulador del Mezcal). As well, this category includes Bacanora, produced only in the state of Sonora and Raicilla, made in Jalisco. These are unique gems and are not to be missed.

Destilado de Agave

Uncertified or declassified Tequila or Mezcal. Destilado de Agave is a term that is used to label a spirit that is distilled from agave but the spirit, batch, or producer is not registered to legally label it Mezcal or Tequila or any other name that has a set of rules and regulations defined by a Denomination of Origin (DO) in Mexico.
